Charlotte Andres, OMF

Several wooden houses, very close together over swamp land were burned. Fire trucks arrived at the scene, but said they had no water. City fire fighters won't spray water to stop squatters' houses from burning. They protect only the houses of people who have legitimate land ownership and who are willing to pay them. Naomi, who worked as our house help, also lost her home to this fire. She has survived the Khmer Rouge as a teenager, has been in a difficult marriage and is very poor. Despite the hardships and trials of this life, Naomi has kept the faith in her Heavenly Father. When she gets to heaven, she will receive the praise of God. And now on earth she knows the beauty of God's comfort, for that is basically all she has. To keep the faith simply said, but ever so hard to do. To not be offended by what God allows into our lives is to be content. 1 Timothy 6:6 "But godliness with contentment is great gain." Thank you for your prayers.

Anyone interested in sponsoring a child for a week at camp please contact the church office.
